Home and Away star Ben dead

ACTOR Ben Unwin, who played Jesse McGregor in Aussie soap Home and Away, has died aged just 41.

The actor's body was discovered last week on August 14, but the cause of death has not yet been confirmed.

A police statement read: "Police attended Minyon Falls, Whian Whian (New South Wales), responding to a concern for welfare."

"The body of a 41-year-old man was located. The death is not being treated as suspicious."

Unwin (above) played "bad boy" Jesse during two stints on the popular soap, between 1996 and 2000 and then from 2002 to 2005.

His character was often in trouble with the law, with one storyline seeing his character sent to prison after he was accused of burning down Alf Stewart's shop for insurance money.

Man, 26, charged over tent carnage

A MAN has been charged after a woman was left fighting for her life when a car was driven into tents on a campsite.

Four campers were injured when the vehicle was driven on the Rhyd y Galen site near Bethel, Caernarfon, in the early hours of Monday morning.

Jake Waterhouse, 26, will appear at Llandudno Magistrates' Court today.

Det Ch Insp Sion Williams said: "A 26-year-old man from the Manchester area with causing serious injury by dangerous driving," and other driving offences.

20-YEAR-OLD DENIES KILLING HERO COP

A MAN accused of killing a police officer while he investigated a burglary has denied any involvement in his "horrific murder".

Jed Foster, 20, is charged over the death of 28-year-old newlywed PC Andrew Harper on Thursday evening in the village of Sulhamstead in Berkshire.

The Thames Valley Police constable died from multiple injuries after being dragged under a vehicle.

Foster appeared at Reading Magistrates' Court on Tuesday charged with his murder and theft of a quad bike from Peter Wallis.

Members of PC Harper's family watched from the packed public gallery as Foster stood in the dock wearing a grey prison-issue tracksuit.

Horrific

Foster confirmed his name, date of birth and address during the three-minute hearing.

Foster, from Pingewood in Burghfield, near Reading, was not asked to enter pleas to the charges.

District Judge Davinder

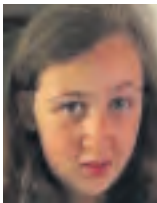

Lachhar remanded him in custody until today, when he will appear at Reading Crown Court.

His lawyer, Rob Jacques, said: "On behalf of him and his family, I want to say three things."

"He denies any involvement in the horrific murder of PC Harper."

"We urge the police to follow all lines of inquiry and for the public to come forward and co-operate."

Foster was handcuffed before he left the dock. There was a heavy police presence at court.

'Nora raped by tribe' man faces prison

A MAN is facing up to two years in prison after he allegedly falsely tweeted that Nora Quoirin had been raped by indigenous people before she died.

Muhammad Zikri Ibrahim, 29, is accused of committing insult by falsely claiming that villagers from the Orang Asli tribe raped Nora (above), 15, who went missing just a day after arriving at the eco-resort in Malaysia with her parents.

Nora's body was found naked near a waterfall in the Malaysian jungle on August 13.

The discovery was made by a volunteer hiker on the 10th day of an intensive search, just two miles from the Duncan resort where her family were staying.

Mr Ibrahim denied the allegation after appearing in a court in Kuala Lumpur.

It comes as Nora's family search for more answers around the French-Irish teenager's death.

She had told her family that she was "excited" to visit a waterfall when she arrived at the resort, a volunteer searcher said.

Lightning strike caused blackouts

A LIGHTNING strike and the sudden loss of two electricity generators caused nearly a million people to lose power in England and Wales earlier this month, an interim report has found.

The National Grid outage affected homes, businesses and transport, and while power was restored quite quickly, disruption continued into the next day.

Regulator Ofgem has opened an investigation into National Grid and other companies involved that could lead to a financial penalty.

Its investigation "would try to establish what lessons can be drawn from the power cut to ensure that steps can be taken to further improve the resilience of Britain's energy network".

EU RESPONSE TO PM'S BACKSTOP CALL...

Bollocks to Boris!

EU bosses have opened their bowels over Boris Johnson's suggestion that the Northern Ireland backstop be scrapped.

In a letter to European Council President Donald Tusk, the PM said the backstop was "unviable" and "anti-democratic" and risked undermining the Northern Irish peace process. But Mr Tusk said those opposing the arrangement without "realistic alternatives" supported re-establishing a hard border.

This was the reality "even if

By COLIN HURST
news@sundaysport.co.uk

they do not admit it", he added in a direct jibe at optimistic Mr Johnson.

"The backstop is an insurance to avoid a hard border on the island of Ireland unless and until an alternative is found," Mr Tusk tweeted.

"This has been the clear and consistent EU position, it remains so," said Irish Foreign Minister Simon Coveney in response to the tweet.

The European Commission said Mr Johnson's letter did not contain a "legally operational solution" to prevent a hard Irish border.

The backstop is part of the withdrawal agreement, negotiated by ex-PM Theresa May with Brussels but rejected three times by MPs.

Mr Johnson's four-page letter to Mr Tusk came ahead of meetings this week with German Chancellor Angela Merkel and French President Emmanuel Macron.

In his letter, Mr Johnson said the arrangement would be "anti-democratic" because it offered no means for the UK to unilaterally exit and no say for the people of Northern Ireland over the rules that would apply there.

The PM also warned that it risked "weakening the delicate balance" of the Good Friday peace agreement because unionist parties like the DUP are so unhappy with it.

He said he was confident that its removal would lead to the withdrawal deal finally being passed in the UK Parliament.

Rail company's travel advice for record-breaking Bank Holiday

RAIL passengers planning a bank holiday getaway are being urged stay at home – even though record-breaking warm weather is forecast.

Train operator London North Eastern Railway issued a "do not travel" warning for the route between London and Scotland via York on Saturday and Sunday because King's Cross will be closed due to Network Rail engineering work. LNER will run a severely restricted service from Scotland and northern England to Peterborough.

The disruption will affect many events and sporting fixtures taking place, including the Edinburgh Fringe, York racecourse's Ebor Festival, Creamfields near Warrington, Manchester Pride, the Ashes Test match in Leeds, rugby league's Challenge Cup final at Wembley, Leeds Festival and a full round of football fixtures.

Network Rail boss Andrew Haines said: "There is never a convenient time to close parts of the railway."

Studios ALREADY planning Epstein movie...and want Grant to play Prince Andrew

DESPITE the ink hardly being dry on his death certificate, Hollywood bosses are ALREADY making plans to shoot a film about the warped life of billionaire nonce Jeffrey Epstein.

And it's believed that producers are already compiling their wish list of big-name stars to appear in the flick – with Hugh Grant in the frame to play Epstein's royal pal Prince Andrew while Cheers actor Ted Danson will play the shamed financier.

A movie source said: "Even though there are still more questions than answers over Epstein's death, the producers want to get the wheels turning on a film of his life."

"He had so many huge contacts it will be an absolute barnstormer of a film."

"The royal connection – via Prince Andrew – is gold dust for the Yank market. If they can get Hugh Grant to play the Prince they might as well book their place at the Oscars."

"I know Ted Danson's name has come up to play Epstein. Whether he'd want to portray a notorious paedophile, though? It may well be career suicide."

Epstein died earlier this month of a reported suicide in his New York prison cell where he was awaiting trial for industrial-scale noncency.

The billionaire financier used his financial clout to prey on young women, while hiding behind a screen of high-profile friends including Bill Clinton and Donald Trump.

Buckingham Palace this week said Prince Andrew is appalled by sex abuse claims about his ex-friend.

BRITAIN'S Got Talent judge Amanda Holden says she "loves" people talking about her "tired old breasts" – despite Ofcom getting a raft of complaints for a number of her revealing outfits.

The 48-year-old (right) said: "I love it that people are still talking about my tired old breasts and I'm nearly 50!"

"I try not to think about age anymore when I'm dressing."

"My children don't bat an eyelid at what I wear and love borrowing my clothes!"

Sex offender showed rude pic to warder

A SEX offender has been remanded to a maximum security jail for DRAWING an offensive image and showing it to a female prison officer.

Robert Basterfield, 47 (above) had been convicted for showing photos of his genitals to staff at a Boots store as he tried to buy Viagra.

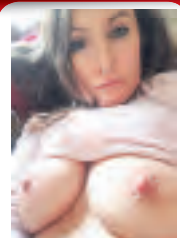

He was inside Perth Prison with no means of taking images so drew his genitals and showed the picture to two female warders.

On Friday, at Perth Sheriff Court, he admitted the offence.

Linda Clark, defending, said: "There's certainly an element of schoolboy artwork. In relation to all of the matters he has been involved in, I would put this at the bottom of the pile for seriousness."

Sheriff William Wood, who deferred sentencing for reports, said: "The trouble is that he is subject to a Sexual Offences Prevention Order."

AS TRAILER IS RELEASED FOR NEW MOVIE VERSION OF LITTLE WOMEN, HERE'S THE CAST WEARING...

LITTLE CLOTHING!

EMMA WATSON

LAURA DERN

FLORENCE PUGH

MERYL STREEP

THE first official trailer for Greta Gerwig's adaptation of Little Women was released last week.

Set in 1860s New England, the story first look follows the journey of four fearless sisters – Meg (Emma Watson, 29), Amy (Florence Pugh, 23), Jo (Saoirse Ronan, 25) and Beth (Eliza Scanlen, 20) – as they each battle societal expectations.

Meryl Streep plays the sisters' Aunt March, a wealthy widow who masks her naturally soft nature with a stern persona, while Big Little Lies star Laura Dern portrays Marmee March, mother to the close-knit sisters.

BY JAYNE FERGUSON

Snippets of the sisters' dreams are shown throughout the trailer, with Jo's wilful and stubborn personality boding well with her play writing desires.

Meg is seen challenging the idea of needing to marry for money, and focuses on finding her true love in life.

Amy, the most conformist out of the sisters, does show elements of rebellion herself, while Beth, the most shy out of them all, does her best to keep the sisterly drama at bay.

Between you, me and the gatepost, it looks fking awful – the sort of thing your great aunt Fanny would like to watch on a Sunday afternoon with a cup of tea and a macaroon.

Never mind. We've got the stars of Little Women wearing little clothing.

The original novel, penned by Louisa May Alcott, was published in two volumes in 1868 and 1869 but has remained a popular tale.

With women, mainly.

DIRTY DOC TOUCHED DIZZY MAN'S WILLY

EXAMINATION:
Dr Fish's surgery

A GP who admitted fancying his own patients has been struck off after he performed a "sexually motivated" and "unnecessary" genital examination of a man with neurological issues.

Dr Peter Fish, 62, was visited by a male patient who told him he was experiencing dizziness, blurred vision and could not taste anything.

But the homosexual GP failed to carry out any of the necessary checks on the man – who in fact had multiple sclerosis – and instead carried out an inspection of his genitals.

Fish also discussed his own homosexuality and asked the patient "completely irrelevant questions" about his sexual orientation.

A disciplinary hearing was told Fish admitted to "experiencing feelings" for patients and that it would "interfere" with him doing his job properly.

The chair of a Medical Practitioners Tribunal

Service panel, Piers Doggart, said Fish, who has nearly 40 years experience, carried out the intimate examination "purely for his own sexually motivated agenda".

Mr Doggart said the panel had no choice after the hearing, held in Manchester, but to ban Fish from practising again following the incident at the Westwood Surgery, Welling, Kent.

Mr Doggart said: "The Tribunal noted that there was no clinical reason for the intimate examination recorded in notes of the consultation by Dr Fish."

The GP told the tribunal he had carried out the genital inspection as he was eliminating the possibility the patient was suffering an infection.

But Mr Doggart said: "The misconduct in this case is of such a serious nature the Tribunal has concluded that erasure is the only proportionate sanction."

ACTRESS Michelle Keegan has told of "simulating sex" with co-star Damien Molony just minutes after meeting him.

The pair recorded the steamy scene for the new Sky One show Brassic.

Former Corrie babe Michelle, 32 (above), said it was an unusual introduction to her new colleague.

She said: "I'd only met Damo for a few minutes and then we were simulating sex together."

"To be fair, it breaks the ice pretty quickly with someone you don't know. It was a case of, 'Nice to meet you... let's get our clothes off and go!'"

"Anytime you do a sex scene with a room full of people shouting instructions, it's going to be ridiculous, but that's part of the job and you have to just get on with it."

Kildare actor Damien agreed that there was "nothing sexy" about filming the scenes, adding: "I've done a few down the years and they are just weird."

BOUNCERS WERE 'TOO BUSY' TO SAVE GIRL FROM SEX PEST

JAILED: Pearse Armstrong

A STAG do sex attacker left a hotel guest terrified after following her into her room and molesting her – while security staff "astonishingly" said they were too busy to help.

Drunken Pearse Armstrong had latched onto the victim and her friend outside the Travelodge in Dunston, Gateshead, after a night out in Newcastle but they politely tried to distance themselves from him.

However, as they went into their room after saying goodnight, he put his foot in the doorway to stop the door closing and let himself in.

He refused to comply with their requests to leave before subjecting one of the women to a sustained sexual assault on the bed.

Her frantic friend ran to seek assistance from security but was told they were too busy dealing with a fight.

Thankfully two men in another room nearby – Joshua White and Joseph Gray – intervened and the attack was stopped.

Now Armstrong, 40, who denied sexual assault but was convicted at Newcastle Crown Court, has been jailed for 22 months.

By COLIN HURST
news@sundaysport.co.uk

Armstrong, of Belfast, must also sign the Sex Offenders' Register for 10 years.

Judge Amanda Rippon said the women initially thought Armstrong was no more than a pest and believed they could get rid of him.

Bottom

She added: "They made a mistake because you are very big and strong compared to them and you didn't want to go, you wanted to party."

"You pushed her on the bed, told her you were going to eat her, you told her that several times and you grabbed her bottom."

Armstrong carried out a sex act over her clothing before pulling down his trousers and underpants.

Judge Rippon added: "You told the jury you were ready to have sex with her."

"I have no doubt if you had the opportunity and had not been interrupted, you would be facing a far more serious charge."

"The victim's friend ran from the room, desperate for help and she frantically tried to get help from security, who, astonishingly, put her off and said they had to deal with a fight somewhere else."

"They left her to seek help from the men in the room opposite."

The court heard Armstrong has three previous convictions for drink driving in Northern Ireland.

DRUNK GIRL HURLED PEE

A COURT has heard how a "toxic" couple hurled an omelette, urine, a Buddha statue and hot sugary water over each other in a row.

Denise Brown, 51, attacked then-partner Steven Letchford in front of police officers, who charged her with inflicting actual bodily harm.

Brown, an alcoholic and crack cocaine addict, had originally been arrested on suspicion of causing grievous bodily harm.

But the charge was reduced when Mr Letchford failed to turn up to give evidence against her.

The court heard he had recently been released from prison and suffered from liver problems, so kept a bottle nearby to urinate in.

She took the bottle during their argument and threw it at him.

The couple had temporarily "reconciled" but then when the row flared up again, she switched on a water heater before throwing water over Mr Letchford's face.

Judge Shani Barnes told Brown: "There comes a point – and surely 51 is that point – where you have some tough decisions to make about yourself, about whether you have the strength to turn things around."

"You have not worked for 20 years. You absolutely deserve to go to prison – there will be no more sympathy from me."

Brown, from St. Leonards-on-Sea, East Sussex, was sentenced in Hove Crown Court and was ordered to complete 25 rehabilitation sessions and 70 hours of community service.

Pink joins Elton in defending 'bullied' Meg

POP star Pink is the latest celebrity to defend the Duke and Duchess of Sussex, saying Meghan has been subjected to "the most public form of bullying I have seen in a while".

The U.S. singer (above), 39, followed Sir Elton John and chat show host Ellen DeGeneres in condemning the perceived mistreatment of the royals, who have been criticised for their use of private jets.

Sir Elton had earlier hit out at "relentless and untrue assassinations on their character" while DeGeneres said they were "the most down-to-earth, compassionate people".

Now Pink has asked fans to "be a bit kinder".

She tweeted: "I'm happy to see people coming to the defence of The Duke and Duchess of Sussex.

"The way people treat her is the most public form of bullying I have seen in a while. It's out of control. Let's all be a bit kinder, huh?"

"Let's show our children that it's cool to be kind."

Council scraps its designs for no-nookie bogs

A COUNCIL has said plans for public toilets in a seaside town – with design features to deter vandalism, sexual activity and rough sleeping – were submitted in "error".

Plans for the bogs in Porthcawl's Griffin Park included weight-sensitive floors and alarm features.

A design and access statement submitted to Bridgend County Borough Council included water jets, set cubical use time to deter rough sleeping, and graffiti-resistant walls and floors.

Weight-sensitive floors would ensure only one user could be in a cubicle at a time, to safeguard against "inappropriate sexual activity".

But the Welsh town's council now says the plans were "misinterpreted" and the toilets will be of "traditional construction".

Women 'four times more likely to sext'

WOMEN are four times more likely than men to share nudes and sext in order to feel "empowered".

Sociology student Morgan Johnstonbaugh looked into what motivates young people to send sexually explicit images of themselves over text and collected data from more than 1,000 students at the University of Arizona.

Analysing the results, Johnstonbaugh (above) pointed to a sexual double standard which could be disempowering for women.

She said: "The sexual double standard is this idea that's perpetuated in society that men and women have different types of sexuality – that men have voracious desires, whereas women are capable of making moral decisions and acting as the gatekeepers to sexual activity."

"With this idea in mind, women may feel pressured to share images with their boyfriends in order to keep them interested or please their appetite."

Funniest fart is long, loud, slightly wet

THE "world's funniest fart" has been revealed by scientists in a specially commissioned study.

The Flatulence Report, for The Beano, has worked out a mathematical formula that was tested for 176 different noises.

Components in the formula included a fart's intensity, length, social embarrassment and the number of children present divided by the age and gender of whoever hears it.

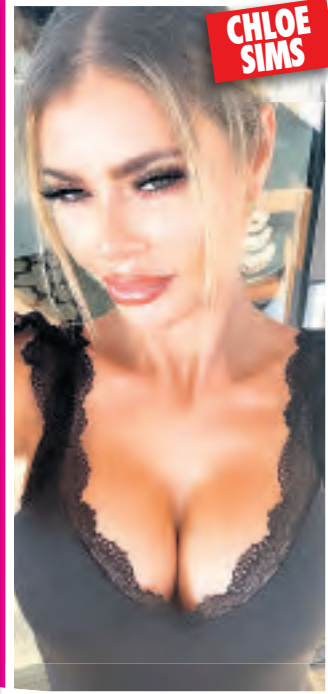

The funniest fart came out on top in a public vote with a score of 8.27 out of 10 – also being described as "unfortunate" and "potentially messy".

Scientist Dr Helen Pilcher, who led the research, said: "The funniest fart is long, loud and ever so slightly wet. This gives it the potential to cause major social embarrassment."

'I CAN'T

Winters

Oddball breached sex order

A PERVERT with a fetish for shop dummies has been jailed.

Osian Winters, 24, was spotted performing a sex act in front of mannequins in the fashion display of his local Topshop.

He was spared jail after pleading guilty to outraging public decency – but was made subject to a sexual harm prevention order.

But Winters has ended up behind bars after downloading a messaging app to engage in “sexual conversations” – a breach of his order.

Ogling

When he was caught by cops, Winters said he could not help what he had done in front of the mannequins.

He admitted to police: “Okay boys, I will admit it. I have a bit of a thing for mannequins.”

“When I saw them I started playing with myself – I could not help it.”

Hannah George, prosecuting, said: “It was found that Winters had installed Telegram, a messaging app which sends highly encrypted messages.

“Winters had used the app to engage in sexual conversations with people in three different chat groups.”

“Having the app on his phone put him in breach of a previously imposed sexual harm prevention order.”

Winters, from Carmarthen, South Wales, admitted breaching the order and was jailed for one year.

Swansea Crown Court heard he was spotted by CCTV operators ogling dummies in Carmarthen's Topshop.

Winters also has convictions for exposing himself and performing a sex act on a coastal path, exposing himself in a park and engaging in sexual activity in the presence of a child.

Judge Keith Thomas told Winters: “You have an appalling record for sexual offences and non-compliance with court orders. I cannot entertain the prospect of any other sentence than one of immediate custody.”

Alz drug a cure for teen boozers

RESEARCHERS have discovered that a drug used to treat Alzheimer's can reverse some of the negative effects of boozing during adolescence.

Academics use rats as a model for young adults who binge drink a few times a week.

Once the rats reached adulthood they were given the Alzheimer's drug donepezil, which appeared to reduce inflammation in the brain caused by their previous exposure to alcohol.

Scott Swartzwelder, professor of psychiatry at Duke University, Durham, North Carolina, said: “Research shows that adolescents who drink early and consistently have some deficits in brain function that affect learning and memory.”

FANCY a rub-a-dub-dub in the tub? We'd jump in headfirst if it meant getting WET with this busty babe!

Tasty Tessa Fowler, who sports an amazing 34FF chest, loves a long, hot bath.

The brunette beauty, 21, said her perfect lazy weekend would be watching films, eating takeaways and soaking for hours with a large glass of wine.

Tessa, from Leicester, said: "Bubble baths are my number one stress reliever, because they relax all my muscles and make me feel chilled."

"I fill my bathroom with scented candles and have a cold glass of white wine as I lie back with the soothing water up to my neck."

"One day I'd like to have one of those baths with the jet streams - I can think of a few places I'd love to have massaged while I'm chilling out!"

CLIMATE CHANGE LOONS' NAKED RACE SHAME

DREADS-FUL!
Topless protester

A SNOWFLAKE climate change protest group has been forced to apologise after being accused of RACISM for using a white woman with dreadlocks to promote their cause.

Extinction Rebellion New South Wales posted a picture to Facebook of the topless protester holding a whiteboard. "If your bathtub was overflowing, you wouldn't immediately reach for the mop, you'd first turn off the tap," the sign said.

Angry

"That's what we need to do with fossil fuels." The controversial picture caused a stir, with other snowflakes slamming the Aussie white woman's hair choice.

One said: "Guys did NO-ONE question if it was a good idea to propagate cultural appropriation before posting this? A white person with dreads? Really?

"I think the issue of the overwhelming whiteness within XR organising and membership needs to be addressed."

Other viewers were angry that the woman appeared to be naked in the picture.

"What was up with just the words? What's with using a beautiful naked girl to advertise it? Seems to send a very bizarre message," one person said.

But many supported the woman's message, adding there was 'nothing racist' about it.

The activist group later released an apology, acknowledging viewers had flagged the photo as "racist" and "cultural appropriation".

"We are sorry about this. This page is run by a group of volunteers, each on a different stage of the scale of political awareness, and we promote a call-in culture and learning together," the post said.

Pay gulf still unacceptable

BOSSSES at Britain's biggest firms are taking home smaller pay packages on average, but their salaries still massively outstrip that of the average worker, new research shows.

Chief executives at FTSE 100 companies were paid £3.46 million in 2018 on a median basis – down 13% compared with £3.97 million the previous year, according to the latest CIPD and High Pay Centre analysis.

This means CEO pay is 117 times that of the average UK full-time worker, who makes £29,574 per year.

In mean terms, the average pay package was £4.7 million – down 16% on last year.

A spokesman for the CIPD said: "The gulf between the pay at the top and the bottom is still unacceptably wide."

MISS BEGGED LAD FOR ROMP IN SEXT

A TEACHER accused of sending a teen student sexy pictures and X-rated text messages can avoid a criminal record.

Chelsea Hahn (below), 26, pleaded guilty to a charge of endangering the welfare of a child.

If she completes 40 hours of community service, three years of supervision and gives up her teaching certification, she can avoid a record of conviction under a programme for first-time offenders.

A 17-year-old student reported to police in June last year that Hahn asked him to have sex in a text that included a nude picture of herself.

According to police in Ewing, New Jersey, Hahn's actions "impaired or debauched the morals" of the student.

She was banned from the college where she worked and placed on administrative leave in June 2018 before being fired.

FRENCH FOREIGN LEGION GRAB RECRUITS ON HOLIDAY BEACHES

(DESPITE BREXIT!)

PARADISE...
Until you sober up and find yourself
in uniform!

By GRACE HOOPER news@sundaysport.co.uk

IF you're heading to France on your hols, DON'T get pissed and fall asleep on the beach...

Because you could find yourself drafted into the French FOREIGN LEGION and sent off to fight savage tribesmen in darkest Africa!

France's famous Foreign Legion is running short of recruits and so is running a campaign to try to sign up men – and it's only men, women are excluded from the Legion – while they are enjoying a break at the beach.

While the Legion insist they only accept volunteers, there are fears that befuddled Brits may sign on the dotted line after spending too long in the beach bar and end up serving five years in one of the world's toughest regiments.

Elite

The French Foreign Legion – made famous in the 1967 film Carry On Follow That Camel – announced its intent to recruit more warriors by targeting the French beaches this summer.

The elite combat unit – formed in 1831 – is the only part of the French army that accepts foreign recruits.

And today, it has people from around 150 countries among its 8,000 troops.

The Legion has made it clear that Brexit will be no bar to Brits joining up.

It is also the only unit that will accept former prisoners, except those convicted of "rape, murder and drug trafficking".

The Legion has a fearsome reputation – partially due to its famously brutal training and partly due to its standing gained over the years as the place that one could run away to escape a shady past or nurse a broken heart.

Legion soldiers are often on the frontline of any military conflict and they also carry out domestic missions such as combatting piracy and people smuggling around France.

But numbers are dwindling and this year the Legion needs to recruit 1,245 men of any nationality aged between 17 and 40, Warrant Officer Sang-Jin Lee said.

"We recruit all year round. But in the summer there are fewer candidates, so we go where the people are – the beaches," he added.

Deserters from the Legion are tracked down and fed to dogs.

Dildo up teen's bum woman fights sentence

A WOMAN convicted of sexually assaulting and engaging in a threesome with a teenage boy is seeking to appeal her criminal case, according to court records.

Judge Amy Bertani-Tomeczak granted a motion from Tabitha Ledwa, 44, to file an appeal in her case.

Ledwa was sentenced to 15 years in prison in May after she pleaded guilty to sexually assaulting a teenage boy by bunning him up the arse with a dildo.

She must serve 85 per cent of her sentence before she is eligible for parole. She will also have to register as a sex offender for life.

Prosecutor Mary Fillipitch described Ledwa's actions as "horrific" and "egregious."

Ledwa (above) arrived at Logan Correctional Center in Lincoln on May 17.

Her attorney, Timothy Specht, filed a motion 12 days later to have her sentence reconsidered because it was "excessive."

Pro cuddler told client to 'suck nipple'

A PROFESSIONAL cuddler took things too far when she asked a client to suckle at her breast.

The unnamed client filed a complaint with the state's massage board claiming that Susanne Woodward, a licensed therapist in Tempe, Arizona, engaged in sexual misconduct during a £50 appointment.

The woman said Woodward's Restoration Healing Spa was treating her sexual trauma through cuddling sessions.

But on her fourth appointment, Woodward told her: "I can hold you how you want," leading them both to strip off their tops, the woman claimed in the complaint.

"She told me to suck her nipple," the complaint adds, alleging Woodward told her: "I am channelling nurturing energy to you through my breast".

The US President joked on Twitter: "I promise not to do this to Greenland!"

Trump acknowledged on Sunday that he was "strategically" interested in such a deal, but added it was not a priority of

Danish Prime Minister Mette

Judge offers woman nude photo advice

A JUDGE has said sorry after advising a woman involved in a love triangle court case to send nude photos to Playboy.

Alberto Rivas (above) is facing charges of violating the judicial code after the alleged inappropriate remarks he made during a family court hearing earlier this year.

He was presiding over a dispute involving the girlfriend of a married man and the man's wife.

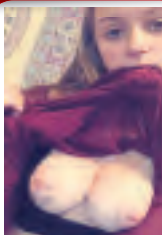

The girlfriend sought to have explicit photos she had sent to her boyfriend returned, fearing revenge porn.

Rivas doubted the woman's allegations and told her: "The only person you should be sending naked pictures to is Hugh Hefner (late owner of Playboy). He will pay you $100,000 for the use of them."

He later apologised for the statements he made in the New Jersey court, saying: "I regret the comments I made during the proceeding."

'All I did was wild, drink constantly, fk people and sing'

— JANIS JOPLIN

ALMOST half a century since her death from an accidental heroin overdose, Janis Joplin's legacy as an icon of psychedelic rock and blues lives on.

Known to fans as Pearl, Joplin rose to prominence on the San Francisco music scene during the 1960s, both with bands and as a solo artist.

But in 1970, her life came to a swift and tragic end.

It was the final full stop to a short life of excess, addiction and illness – spurred on by memories of an uneasy childhood.

From the home that couldn't understand her, to the men who betrayed her, to the music that gave her purpose, this is the tragic, brilliant life of the Pearl of San Francisco...

By JUSTIN DUNN news@sundaysport.co.uk

Joplin's life with billboards, brochures, and even an annual concert in her honour.

Although she eventually earned a reputation for outspokenness, charisma and an easy-going charm, Janis Joplin's childhood encouraged anything but.

During her youth and adolescence, she was bullied relentlessly. She was overweight for her age and troubled by acne.

Whore

Her peers never let her forget it, calling her "pig" and "whore" and mockingly throwing pennies at her.

According to Joplin: "They laughed me out of class, out of town, out of the state."

In 1970, only weeks before her death, Joplin showed up to her high school reunion in Port Arthur adorned in feather boas and accompanied by the media "just to jam it up their asses".

She said she wanted to "see all those kids who are still working in gas stations and driving dry cleaning trucks while I'm making $50,000 a night".

After she died, her will said specifically that she was not to be buried in Port Arthur.

That jab – as well as her ruthlessness toward the town in the national press – did nothing to endear the residents of Port Arthur to their most famous daughter.

But Joplin never seemed to care.

She left Texas as soon as she could. In 1963, she moved to North Beach,

POPPED THEIR CLOGS!

MUSIC'S MOST SHOCKING DEATHS

in San Francisco's Haight-Ashbury district – the cradle of hippie culture.

It was there she began her career as a musician, taking up occasional work as a folk singer.

But it was also in North Beach that Joplin began to embrace the drug culture. Before long, she had become known as a speed freak.

Coupled with her thirst for Southern Comfort and a liking of heroin, Joplin's lifestyle during her first stint in San Francisco did nothing for her health or her state of mind.

Her weight plummeted to 6st 2lbs. Her friends began to worry about her "skeletal" appearance and eventually they organised a bus fare party to raise the funds to send her back home.

Finally, in 1965,

Joplin returned to Port Arthur.

Janis's homecoming at Port Arthur was, according to her sister Laura, "the beginning of a very positive period in her life".

She quit drugs and booze, even changed her hairstyle to the beehive. She re-enrolled at Lamar University and studied anthropology.

But she never gave up the music, travelling to Austin on occasion to perform at bars and in local shops.

Life on the straight and narrow didn't last very long.

She returned to drugs and alcohol. She gained her weight back, which compelled a new bout of abuse from her peers at college – members of a frat house dubbed her the "ugliest man on campus" and persuaded the school paper to report it.

Joplin threw herself into her songwriting and slowly but surely began to hone and refine the sound of her voice.

Her love life was chaotic. She openly admitted sleeping with "thousands" of both men and women.

But during her time in San Francisco, she had met Peter de Blanc. Their relationship, according to Laura Joplin, was "intense", on account of his drug addiction being even worse than hers.

The two were due to be wed, but only a few months later Peter called it all off.

Bullying

He had got another woman pregnant and was planning to marry her instead.

In a letter sent to de Blanc during their relationship, Joplin had written: "I really love you. In attempting to find a semblance of a pattern in my life, I find I've gone out with great vigour every time and gotten really fed up."

"All I did was be wild, drink constantly, f people, sing. Jesus fing Christ, I want to be happy so fing bad."

In 1966, an old friend of Joplin's from San Francisco tracked her down and invited her to front a blues band he was managing.

Jilted by her ex-lover and thoroughly done with the bullying she'd endured at college, she didn't struggle to make the decision.

She returned to a San Francisco in the throes of hippie culture – where psychedelia reigned supreme, rock music was everywhere and the bohemian life seemed like the only life worth living.

Linking up with Big Brother and the Holding Company, Joplin's vocal performance during the band's cover of Big Mama Thornton's Ball and Chain has since gone down in rock myth.

Big Brother – and Joplin herself – had finally begun to make waves.

The band released their second and most successful album, Cheap Thrills, in 1968.

Described as "a record of near-perfect intensity", Cheap Thrills was a raw, passionate testament to the strength of Janis Joplin's voice and the talent of Big Brother's other band members.

The stand-out single was Piece of My Heart – a smash hit – which is still being ruined to death by karaoke singers across the planet to this day.

It did wonders for the album's figures – Cheap Thrills would top the US Billboard charts for eight weeks and sell over two million copies.

It also made Joplin herself one of the most recognisable music faces of the decade.

Even at that point, though, she had begun to outgrow Big Brother.

Only a few months after the release of Cheap Thrills, she left the band to pursue her own solo career.

Addiction

Joplin formed the Kozmic Blues Band, the group that would back her while she embarked on a solo career.

The band's music met with only a lukewarm commercial reception.

Their first album, despite being critically acclaimed, failed to match the chart successes of Big Brother and Cheap Thrills.

But worse still, Joplin's decline into addiction was proving more and more troublesome by the day.

Around 1969, she was said to be using around £200 worth of heroin every day.

Heavy drug use and near-constant drinking began to impact her live performances.

During a headline slot at Woodstock, she admitted to being "three sheets to the wind".

And she went on stage at Madison Square Garden so drunk, stoned and out of control that at the end of 1969 the Kozmic Blues Band broke up.

On October 4, 1970, Janis Joplin was due to arrive at Sunset Sound Studios in Hollywood for recording sessions. She failed to show up.

Her road manager, John Cooke, was sent over to her hotel.

Her car was in the car park and her curtains were drawn.

When Cooke knocked on the door, there was no response. He fetched the manager and they broke into the room.

They found Joplin dead on the floor, with bloody lips and a broken nose. A small amount of change – unexplained to this day – was clutched in her fist.

It was later confirmed she had died of a heroin overdose and suffered the other wounds when she collapsed.

Following a private funeral, Joplin was cremated and her ashes scattered over the Pacific Ocean, just off Stinson Beach in California.

At the time of her death, Janis Joplin, the voice of a generation, was just 27 years old.

Lawyers for the council in Sacramento, California, have filed a lawsuit against seven vagrants and want the court to ban them from the city forever, due to their broad-daylight diddling.

Joan Borucki, executive director of the Greater

Broadway District, says workers are constantly dealing with "the aftermath of drug activity" sparked by homeless individuals.

"This includes dealing with the human waste, needle pick up, theft, car break-ins and vandalism on a daily basis," a statement by Borucki in the civil suit reads.

Drugs

"I have seen an increase in employees threatened with harm by people who are under the influence of drugs."

A spokeswoman for Sacramento Mayor Darrell Steinberg said: "We are aware of many, many complaints about the listed individuals doing things such as assault, drug dealing, masturbating in public and robbery."

The move outraged homelessness do-gooders, who claim that booting hobos out of town for public masturbation is an attack on civil liberties.

Homeless advocacy lawyer Mark Merin said: "It's an indication of a new tactic that's extremely dangerous. It's scary."

He described the lawsuit as a dangerous precedent as it asks a court to criminalise homelessness and force homeless people out of a geographic area.

BOY GREAT DENNIS WILSON

candice COLLYER

HOT 'N' HORNY

SAUCY Candice Collyer has such a high sex drive she always carries a SEX TOY with her in her handbag.

The 26-year-old told us her favourite bedroom aid is her pocket rocket vibrator, because it never fails to hit the spot.

And Candice, who is from Cheshunt, Herts, said the vibrating toy is small enough for her handbag, so she can take it with her wherever she goes.

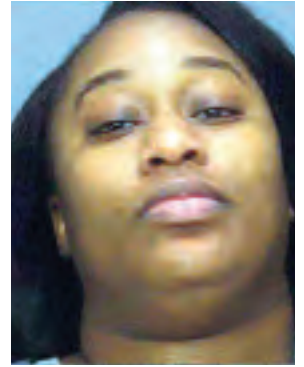

The 34D babe said: "My favourite sex toy would have to be my pocket rocket. It's tiny, so fits in my handbag.

"It vibrates like crazy and does the trick in seconds, so I can make myself cum wherever I am.

"It's especially useful as I work away from home quite a lot.

"Playing with myself in hotels is very sexy."

BOOTY CALL BABE BURNS DOWN BLOKE'S BUNGALOW

SEETHING: Russell was 'stranded' outside

'I see you wanna die', she texted

A WOMAN set fire to a man's house after he invited her over for sex and then fell asleep – leaving her stranded outside.

"You wasted my money to come out here," Taija Russell seethed in a text message. "I see you wanna die."

Russell, 29, is charged with attempted homicide, aggravated arson, aggravated assault, endangering, creating substantial risk of death and criminal mischief in relation to the alleged torching last week.

Booty

Police said they arrested her after recovering the text messages she sent to her alleged booty buddy.

The victim, whose identity is being withheld, told cops that he woke up to find his bungalow home engulfed in flames. He discovered he had eight missed calls from Russell, along with the texts.

He was later treated in hospital for smoke inhalation and burns.

The man's bungalow and its contents were "completely destroyed" when police arrived.

He told investigators that Russell was a "side chick" with whom he had been having a sexual relationship.

Surveillance video captured outside the man's house shows Russell outside "just prior to the fire," the statement says.

Russell, from Woodbury, New Jersey, remains in custody.

SHIT LESS AND SAVE THE WORLD!

Brazil president's bizarre solution

POO PLAN:
Bolsonaro

BRAZILIAN President Jair Bolsonaro thinks people should POO less – to save the planet.

The far-right leader offered the idea in response to a question as to whether it was possible to spur economic growth, feed the world's hungry and also preserve the environment.

He said: "It's enough to eat a little less.

"You talk about environmental pollution – it's enough to poop every other day, that will be better for the whole world."

Bolsonaro has been criticised for ravaging the Amazon rainforest, which covers vast swathes of Brazil and is considered vital to combatting global warming.

According to Brazil's National Institute for Space Research, around 870 square miles of the Amazon were cleared in July – an increase of 278 per cent from a year ago.

The rainforest is vital to the exchange of oxygen for carbon dioxide in the atmosphere – a check on global warming.

But Bolsonaro argues that the rapid rise in world population needs to be addressed.

"When you see how it is increasing by 70 million a year, you need a family planning policy," he declared.

THE WORLD FAMOUS AGONY Page

Dear Sam,

THERE'S a bloke in my local pub who asked me to shag his bird while he watched.

He's 64, I'm 21 and she's 35, with a cracking body. Apparently, he can't get it up any more.

So I went to their place and did the business. She was wearing stockings and suspenders and no knickers.

She took my rock-hard cock deep down her throat and then I boned her on the couch from behind.

I then fked her up the arse while he fingered and licked her out. But later on, while I was boning her again from behind, he tried to fk me up the arse.

He'd been lying about being impotent and I gave him a smack. I've asked for £100 compensation. Do you think I'm right?

TD, south Yorkshire

Sam says...

NO. Just forget about it - you shagged his bird, so you're quits now.

Dear Sam,

AFTER 10 years of marriage I've become depressed because my husband seems to have lost interest in sex with me.

Until the past three months we'd always enjoyed a hectic and adventurous sex life.

In fact, only 12 weeks ago we had a sensational threesome. We'd been in the pub and this guy came back to our place.

My hubby put on a porn DVD in the front room and we all ended up going upstairs together.

My guy shagged me first as his mate played with my 36Ds and tweaked my nipples and I pumped his cock.

Then he rolled off and I got on all fours as his pal took me from behind. Then as we lay back exhausted side by side, I wanked them both off in unison.

But this is the last sex session me and my husband have had and I can't help wondering why.

IS, Devon

Sam says...

PERHAPS your hubby thought you enjoyed his mate's cock too much. Change his mind for him.

I enjoy extra meat with my takeaway

Dear Sam,

I'm a 35-year-old divorcee bringing up three young children.

One night I'd put the kids to bed and ordered a Chinese takeaway. Not long after the bell rang and I was confronted by a stunning young bloke holding my meal.

It was a cold night and he was shivering, so I invited him into the kitchen for a cuppa.

I suddenly noticed that he was staring at me and I asked what was wrong.

He told me I was beautiful. Naturally I was chuffed and said: "You should see me first thing in the morning."

I got a shock when he answered: "I wish I could."

Then he lifted me on the table and tore off my blouse, skirt and thong.

He slipped his rock-hard penis into my wet pussy and it wasn't long before we both had an orgasm at the same time.

Now I find myself ringing the takeaway five nights a week, just so I can have sex with him.

I really can't afford it. What should I do?

MR, east London

Sam says...

ASK him out on a date.

AGONY IS BROUGHT TO YOU IN ASSOCIATION

WELCOME to the World famous Sport Agony page! No other newspaper's agony aunts can offer the level of advice – or experience – than our own Agony Angels! This week SAM TYE has been reading through your letters. And here's her advice for you...

I'm Black Widow's sex slave – to keep my job!

Dear Sam,

I'M an IT worker and while I was updating the firm's internal e-mail system I decided to take the opportunity to look up some web porn.

I found a snap of some stud taking a fit blonde from behind. For some reason I thought it would be a laugh to superimpose my head on the stud's body and the head of one of my fit colleagues.

It looked realistic, so I e-mailed the image to some of my mates.

The only problem was that a fault in my new system meant that everyone in the office received a copy.

Furious

Most of the lads and a couple of the women thought it was great fun, but my fit colleague was furious and complained to our female boss.

She's a 40-year-old divorcee, blonde and big-titted, but unfortunately with a face like a horse's arse.

Her nickname in the office is the Black Widow. That's because once she shags any bloke who works here, he's never seen again.

Anyway, she told me to see her in her office when everyone had gone home and I obviously feared the worst.

When I got there she gave me a right bollocking and explained to me that what I had done was serious and a sackable offence.

But then she said that if I shagged her, she would let me off with just a warning.

Seeing a way out of losing my job, I obliged. I took off my clothes and helped her out of hers, and I was surprised at how quickly I stiffened at the sight of the black stockings she was wearing.

As I bent her over the desk and slid easily into her from behind I got a great view of her firm arse and reached round for a grope of her lovely 36DD tits.

As I was pounding away, I glanced up and saw her face reflected in the office window.

There was no getting away from the fact she had an ugly mug, albeit contorted into an amazing expression of ecstasy.

This put me off slightly and it took a real effort to complete the job. But I did, and she seemed to enjoy it.

Now she says she wants regular sex or she'll sack me. I'm prepared to do this, but I'm worried that I'll be the next victim of the Black Widow.

What do you think?

AP, Norfolk

Sam says...

KEEP the Black Widow satisfied so she can't add you to her list of missing men.

Dear Sam,

I HAVE a fear of shagging in the open air. How can I discourage birds from wanting to shag me outdoors?

TF, Somerset

Sam says...

GET a grip man. What could be better than fresh fanny in the fresh air?

Dear Sam,

MY girlfriend was away at her folks' place last weekend, so I popped in to the boozer on the Sunday afternoon.

I sat quietly with my paper and a pint and then the strangest thing happened.

A really fit girl, around 19 with long blonde hair and a slim physique, brought her drink over and asked what I was reading.

We had a few drinks and a nice chat and she later suggested we have a few more drinks elsewhere.

We set off in a taxi but she was desperate for the loo and, as we were passing my place, we paid off the driver and nipped into mine.

I was stunned when she grabbed me in the hall and stuck her tongue down my throat, sending my old man into orbit.

Then she slipped off her jeans and lay back on the carpet, revealing her golden mound just waiting to be eaten.

We screwed all evening and her athletic body got into positions I'd never dreamed of.

She was an expert at oral and loved licking and sucking on my balls.

What worries me is that I might bump into her when I'm out with my girlfriend.

FC, Lancs

Sam says...

DON'T worry about stuff which may not happen.

I'm hooked on back-door action

Dear Sam,

I THINK I'm an anal sex nymphomaniac. I'm 25 with shoulder-length curly black hair, 36DD boobs and an all-over tan.

It started when I caught my next door neighbour's son masturbating as he watched me sunbathe in the garden.

I was going to tell his parents but I started getting turned on by his wanking.

So I'd oil up my body and go in the garden in my skimpiest pink bikini.

I was getting so hot as he started to whip one off that I went round and asked him to oil up my back.

He's 19 and we were soon upstairs in my house with him throwing all he had into nailing me doggy-style.

Pumping

Then without warning, he slipped out of my pussy and slid his cock up my arse.

It was a shock at first, but then I found myself starting to really enjoy the feeling of him pumping away there.

He soon exploded and that is when I orgasmed. I'd never had anal before and I was hooked.

He's been boasting about it to his mates and he's suggested an anal gang-bang.

I'm not sure I would go that far, however, as there may be risks involved.

What do you think?

HS, west Midlands

Sam says...

YES, there would be risks with a gang-bang – just stick with your next-door neighbour.

I LOVE making home-made sex tapes. They are so much fun and so naughty!

Usually when I'm watching porn, I often think... I can do better!

I don't worry too much about fancy camera work. I just try to keep it simple.

I'm into grabbing a camera phone and, for example, the guy filming me doing a strip.

I'd tease and flirt a little and then get down to giving him a BJ.

I'd go real deep throat and include some ball licking action too.

I'm an exhibitionist, so I don't need asking twice, I love to play up to the camera.

Home-made sex movies don't need complicated plots. I find it horny just filming my lady bits being pounded!

My favourite position to film is me on top of my bloke doing reverse cowgirl.

I'm facing the phone, so it records my boobs bouncing up and down and his cock going in and out of my pussy.

I love knowing he's got a keepsake to watch and wank to later. I will be rubbing one out to it too!

JESSICA JANE CLEMENT

JUICY Jessica Jane began modelling aged 18.

She appeared in top-rank grumble mag Playboy and posed for photography legends Byron Newman and the late Bob Carlos Clarke.

Jess became a firm favourite in the lads' mags – and in the pages of Sunday Sport – and appeared in lots of music videos.

By SIMON DEAN

She became advertising gold and was hired as a "spokesmodel" for anti-sweat spray Lynx.

Since 2006, she has starred in the BBC TV series The Real Hustle.

In November 2008, Jess took part in the BBC Three show Celebrity Scissorhands, where she met her now husband Lee Stafford.

And in 2011, the blonde Sheffield beauty took part in the 11th series of I'm a Celebrity...Get Me Out of Here!

A little known fact is that Jess has been deaf since the age of 20.

LIONS TO LEVEL IT AT LEEDS

THE Ashes was turned on its head on the Saturday afternoon of the Lord's Test by one of the most brilliant sustained spells of hostile fast bowling seen at the home of cricket in the ground's rich history.

England must win at least two of the next three Tests to ensure they regain the Ashes, but when Jofra Archer struck Steve Smith a sickening blow to the neck the dynamics of the whole series changed.

The 3rd Test starts at Headingley on Thursday and Smith was ruled out of the game having failed to recover from his "mild" concussion.

Smith's second innings substitute at Lord's — Mar- nus Labuschagne — proved an able deputy despite having himself been struck on the helmet by Archer when on nought. Aussie skipper Tim Paine had another disappointing game — putting England into bat on a beautiful day on Thursday and then making a complete pig's ear of almost every referral.

Umpire Aleem Dar had another shocker with his decision to give Travis Head not out in one of the worst decisions I can ever remember. Dar is not umpiring for the rest of the series fortunately, but Joel Wilson — who had such a poor game at Edgbaston — is in the middle alongside Chris Gaffaney who was good at Lord's.

England — who named an unchanged 12-man squad for Leeds — are 4/5 to win at Headingley at BetVictor with Australia at 17/10 and the draw at 15/4.

Threat

Jason Roy and David Warner failed to score any runs at the top of the innings but put down catches at vital times. The fielding to date has not been out of the top drawer in the opening two Tests — Joe Denly's breathtaking catch to get rid of Tim Paine at Lords' apart.

Root should have declared earlier on Sunday, but the momentum is with England and Archer in particular. Archer is 2/1 at BetVictor to pick up most 1st innings wickets but I feel he might help pick up wickets down the other end with the Baggy Greens likely to play a few more shots at Broad, Woakes and Leach who was a real threat in the 4th innings of the match on Sunday.

There has only been one draw in Leeds in 19 Tests and, with the weather fair, the odds for the draw make little appeal. It is possible that Archer may not be able to repeat his Lords heroics and Paine may freshen up his own attack with James Pattinson and Mitchell Starc both hoping for a recall. But I still fancy England.

Ben Stokes has looked England's best player in the first couple of Tests and he gets the vote again at 5/1 to be top bat for the hosts. Travis Head looked all at sea against the slow left arm of Jack Leach in the second innings at Lords, but he has played the quicks well enough and he might be overpriced at 5s.

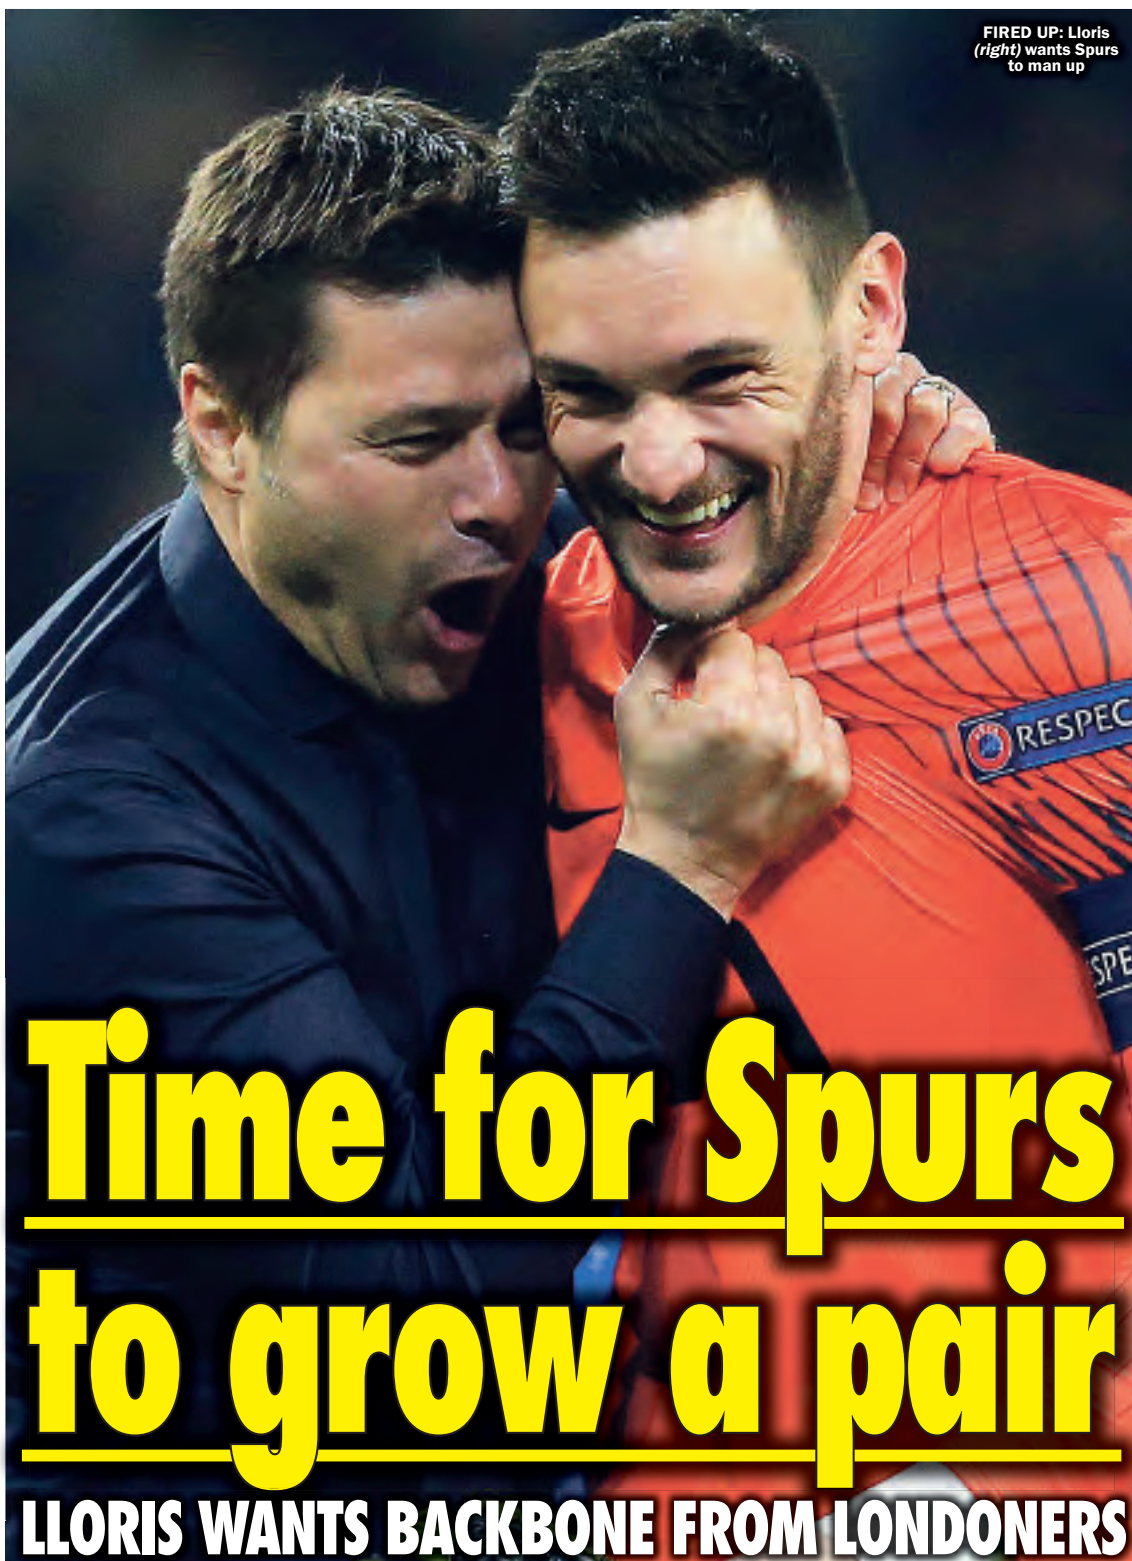

Third Test tips: prices from BetVictor

- England to win at 4/5
- Ben Stokes top runscorer at 5/1
- Travis Head top runscorer at 5/1

FIRE UP: Lloris (right) wants Spurs to man up

Time for Spurs to grow a pair

LLORIS WANTS BACKBONE FROM LONDONERS

GOALIE Hugo Lloris has ordered his Spurs teammates to toughen up.

The French stopper thinks the Londoners are too soft to win trophies.

They fell away badly in the title race last season and put up a poor display in the Champions League final against Liverpool.

They lost 13 times in the Premier and Lloris wants more backbone to make sure there are more wins this time around.

He said: "One thing that we try to improve this season: if you cannot win, it's important to not lose the game."

"If you want to stay in contact with the best teams in the Premier League, it's important to get this feeling.

By PAUL THOMAS

"There were some games that we lost last season that we should have drawn."

"We all know the difficulty of playing teams like City, so it's a good feeling to build confidence drawing there at the weekend."

And Lloris admits Spurs have a massive gap to bridge before they can make a realistic move for the Premier League title.

He added: "With humility, Liverpool and City are the real contenders."

"We're going to try our best to challenge for top spot, but it's difficult to find the consistency."

"We just need to try to use the experience of the last few years in the best way and it's about details — to not lose a game, especially a game you do not deserve to win."

"You draw, you take a point and it's very good because your rivals share the point with you."

"Now it's just to keep the consistency. Consistency is the key."

Midfielder Harry Winks believes the 2-2 draw at City shows what Spurs are capable of.

He believes the champions and Liverpool should be looking nervously over their shoulders at Mauricio Pochettino's men. The England international said: "I think City and Liverpool should worry about us."

"We've shown in the last few years we can compete with the best teams in the Premier League and Europe."

"It's important we do that on a consistent basis this season and it's important we go to places like City and Liverpool and get results."

"The manager doesn't allow fear in us. We go into every game knowing we can win and we can outperform them."

"Our mentality going into every game is to be on the front foot, press and try to win. That's probably why we came away with a good point at City."

REDS IN SPOT OF BOTHER

Rash: Pog will still take pens

MARCUS Rashford is adamant there's no penalty problem at Old Trafford.

Pundits and United fans are up in arms after Paul Pogba's costly miss against Wolves. With the scores level at 1-1 and time running out, his poor effort cost the Reds the chance to go top of the league.

The Frenchman and Rashford had a quick chat about who was going to take it. And even though the England striker has a brilliant record from 12 yards, he watched his team-mate blast the ball at Rui Patrício.

It turns out that they are BOTH the designated penalty taker for Ole Gunnar Solskjær's men.

Pogba has missed a whopping four spot kicks while Rashford has a 100% record.

So that call has everyone scratching their heads.

But Rashford thinks it's a perfectly reasonable situation.

He said: "I think if you ask anyone in the team, they'll feel confident to take the penalty."

"Paul wanted to take it, I took the one last week and it was no problem."

"But he's scored countless penalties for us, countless penalties in his career and it's normal for somebody to miss a penalty."

"We don't need to make a deal of it; if we had another penalty, I'm sure he'd score."

It was a game of two halves at Molineux with United looking their old selves with a blistering opening 45 minutes.

But it turned round after the break with Wolves netting a deserved equaliser and missing other chances to nick the points — despite United earning a penalty.

Rashford was happy with his display and his team-mates.

He added: "We still have things to work on but it was a decent performance."

"We were unlucky to come away with a point. It feels like we've lost the game."

Improvement

"I've compared it to last time we were here and it's a million miles off that performance."

"We know that we've improved individually and as a team. The result is disheartening but we brush ourselves down and go again."

"We see the improvement, we feel it — but 100 per cent we need to show it. That's the most important part of it."

Sadly, Pogba suffered racist abuse on social media after the match.

Manchester United have condemned the trolls. A club statement said: "Everyone at Manchester United is disgusted by the racial abuse aimed at Paul Pogba last night and we utterly condemn it."

"The individuals who expressed these views do not represent the values of our great club and it is encouraging to see the vast majority of our fans condemn this on social media also."

"We will work to identify the few involved in these incidents and take the strongest course of action available to us."

IMPRESSED: Giggs

James can fire up Dragons says Giggs

RYAN Giggs believes Daniel James can help fire Wales to Euro 2020.

The Dragons boss is under fire after a modest start to qualifying with defeats against Croatia and Hungary.

That has left them six points off the pace heading into their must-win home game against Azerbaijan.

Welshman James has made an instant impact since moving from Swansea to Man United.

He is already a key part of Ole Gunnar Solskjær's first-team.

And Giggs is hoping his pace can light up Wales too.

He said: "I am excited because I know what he's capable of."

"A year or so ago he was on loan at Shrewsbury but in the last six months I've seen a massive change in him mentally and physically."

"Like any young winger he's going to be up and down."

"But when he's on fire he is very difficult to stop and I think in a lot of games this year United fans will be excited."

Giggs has received another boost by Gareth Bale and Aaron Ramsey returning to full fitness.

Key

The two experienced stars missed most of last year's international action with injuries.

Bale has come in from the cold at Real Madrid after looking like leaving for China.

The 30-year-old started Real's first league game of the season last weekend while Ramsey has pulled on a Juventus shirt for the first time.

The Italian season kicks off this weekend and the former Arsenal man is expected to be involved having taken the place of Emre Can.

But it's not all good news for Wales. As Giggs names his squad today he will be without key forward David Brooks.

The Bournemouth hitman is out of this match and October's qualifiers against Croatia and Slovakia.

That's while he comes back from ankle surgery.

Giggs will have to make a big call about talisman Ashley Williams. The 35-year-old is without a club after being released by Everton at the end of last season. Chris Mepham is another lacking game time this term.

SMITH BOUNCED OUT OF TEST

AUSSIE superstar Steve Smith is OUT of the third Ashes Test at Headingley.

The action kicks off in Leeds tomorrow but he's still suffering the effects of being clonked on the head by a 92mph Jofra Archer bouncer.

The 30-year-old has been the star of the series so far with scores of 1442, 142 and 92 from his three knocks.

He wasn't able to take part in training yesterday and has been ruled out.

England had already warned that they would be firing in plenty of short stuff if Smith made it to Headingley.

All-rounder Ben Stokes said: "It's part of the game and a big part of Jofra's game, being aggressive, not letting batsmen settle."

"When someone takes a nasty blow no bowler is going to say 'I'm not going to bowl that again because I don't want to hit them again'."

Brain injury charity Headway said it was "dangerous" for Smith to have batted again at Lord's.

"You need to take an 'if in doubt' approach," said Headway's Luke Griggs.

"With concussion, the vision can be blurred and the brain can be slow processing information. That leads to delayed reaction times and incredibly dangerous."

Marnus Labuschagne came in for Smith in the second innings at Lord's thanks to the new rule allowing subs for concussion in Tests.

But he got some chin music himself yesterday in the nets from speedster Mitchell Starc. The quickie peppered him with bouncers and at least one of them when pinged off the batsman's helmet.

He had to be checked by the team doctor before carrying on with the session.

Jimmy Anderson was forced to miss the Lord's test with injury and has already been ruled out of Leeds. But the Lancashire seamer played for the county's second XI in a friendly yesterday.

He showed no ill-effects of his injury and bowled five overs in his first spell.
